ROSEMARY LYNCH DIES AT AGE 93

It is rare that one person has given as much to a community and its organizations as Rosemary Lynch. She is proof that one person can make a big difference. She was born February 25, 1928, and died May 21, 2021. In her endless effort to keep Glendale beautiful, Rosemary said, “I want to help keep our community clean and nice; it is a passion of mine.” She not only succeeded in her mission but was also instrumental in promoting and preserving Glendale’s history. Rosemary was one of the 1973 founding members of the Glendale Arizona Historical Society. For over four decades Rosemary actively served the society on the Board of Directors and volunteered at Sahuaro Ranch as a docent, fund raiser, and special events and wedding facilitator. She was also active in setting up exhibits at the Guest House and cleaning up the ranch, even pulling weeds. As a result of her passion for historic preservation, Rosemary was awarded the 2017 Ruth Byrne Historic Preservation Award by the Glendale City Council for her outstanding contribution to promoting and preserving Glendale’s history.

Rosemary was devoted to conservation and served on the Glendale Parks and Recreation Commission. In 1976, she and the Glendale Woman’s Club worked with the City of Glendale to promote plantings of red, white and blue flowers in yards and city parks. In the 1970s, Rosemary chaired the city’s Community Improvement Program, which along with the participation from the Glendale Woman’s Club, resulted in trees being planted and areas of the city made more attractive. Thanks to those efforts, the city’s mayor was awarded a national “Beautification Award” in Washington D.C.

Rosemary joined the Glendale Woman’s Club in 1966 and served as president in 1970-1971. She was the Conservation/Arbor Day Chairman and, as chair of the Club’s Adopt-a-street Program, had a passion to keep Glenn Drive attractive. She was also a member of the Glendale Garden Club and in 1992, served on the Glendale Centennial Committee. She worked for many years with the Glendale Arts Council, coordinating with the Glendale Woman’s Club to establish a one-day art show in the early 1960s. Now, years later, the event has grown to be a month-long juried art show held in the Packing Shed at Sahuaro Ranch.

Rosemary has been an amazing volunteer for Glendale historic preservation and community conservation/beautification. In the 1970s she even dressed as the “Little Dutch Cleanser Girl” in the Glendale parade to promote the clean-up of the city. Thank you, Rosemary for a life well lived and an amazing devotion to making Glendale a wonderful place to live.
WAR HERO AND EDUCATION HERO IN GLENDALE

Isaac E. Imes was referred to as, “a kind, patient and good person everyone loved,” and a Glendale newspaper headline stated, “Youth Loses Friend by Death of Mr. Isaac Imes.” Isaac died on April 12, 1956 at age 63. He was born in Montrose, CO and graduated from Telluride High School, first in his class. He received a life teaching certificate from Tempe Normal School in 1914. He taught in Arizona for 2½ years. Then he took a teaching position and later principal of Arington School. WWI started and Isaac enlisted in the Marine Corps as a private, 55th Company, Fifth Regiment, 2nd Division, American Expeditionary Forces at Soissons, France. He served in both Germany and France in five major battles until the end of WWI. Isaac carried dead and wounded men from the battlefields under heavy gunfire. He was awarded the Croix de Guerre, a Fourragère, and an emblem for the battles he fought. In July 1918, Isaac was awarded a Silver Star Citation for gallantry in action while serving with the Marines. President Woodrow Wilson personally shook his hand and thanked him.

In 1919, right after the war, Isaac started teaching in the Glendale Elementary School District, and after 12 years of teaching with a life certificate, he graduated with a Bachelor of Arts in Education degree from Western State College in Gunnison, CO on August 12, 1931. He dedicated his life to the students and youth of Glendale, making sure that needy students had school supplies, clothes and other necessities. In 1938, he married Harriette Frances Salsman, who passed away in 1952. The Glendale School District named an elementary school the Isaac E. Imes School in honor of Isaac’s considerable contributions to the Glendale community.

GLENDALE WAS HOME FOR MARGARET

In 1939, making $50 a week at age 15 being a Munchkin actress (the dog Toto made $150 per week) was a great life experience. In 1936, Margaret Williams was discovered by sidestep performers, who tried to get the 13-year-old 3-foot-4-inch teen to join their act. She said nothing doing, but two years later MGM pictures contacted her and off she went by herself on a train to Hollywood to spend a few months with 124 other Munchkins. Margaret was not a dwarf; she was just small. Judy Garland, who was a year older than Margaret, was kind to her and the other Munchkins. Margaret married Willie Pelligrini, a bantamweight boxer, and they had a son and daughter. She outlived all three and lived with her brother in Glendale until she died August 7, 2013. She acted in one other movie, “Johnny Got His Gun.” She was active with various “Wizard of Oz” events and a guest speaker at grade schools in the valley. She told the children that she never read the book [The Wizard of Oz], and the Munchkins never sang; it was adults singing with the speed turned up. She would dress up for events, speaking in her purple dress and white apron and signature flower pot hat. In a 1996 newspaper interview, she said she found The Wizard of Oz to be a moral lesson: “There are two roads in life you can take: the wrong road and the right road. And remember, there is really no place like home” --Glendale that is.

The Glendale Arts Commission partnered with C+D Design to create 40 wooden guitar cutouts, that were painted and hung in the trees at Murphy Park for concert attendees and others to admire. The commission approved $10,000 for project supplies for downtown businesses to paint what music meant to them on a 36 inch wooden guitar cutout. The Glendale Arizona Historical Society was invited to participate in the project. Marty Cole, Martha Dennis and Paulette Geurs created the society’s offering for the guitars with Glendale’s history displayed in photos. Each of the guitars has a QR code that links to a city page that describes the artwork and business that created it. Thank you Marty, Martha and Paulette for your artistic skills in promoting Glendale’s history to hundreds of concert attendees and others.
